and ends with the commemoration of the Crucifixion and Death of Our Lord on the Cross on Good Friday

Almighty and everlasting God, spare the penitent...bless these ashes, that they may be a remedy to all who invoke Thy Name...O God, Who desires not the death but the conversion of sinners, look kindly upon our human frailty...and bless these ashes, so that we, who know ourselves to be but ashes...and that we must return to dust, may deserve to obtain pardon and the rewards offered to the penitent.

First Sunday in Lent

As Christ Himself was tempted by Satan, so are we. Our strength to resist lies in fasting, in guarding and controlling our senses, in almsgiving, in prayers, and in uniting ourselves with Christ in Holy Mass and Communion.

Second Sunday of Lent

Let the sight of the grandeur of Jesus transfigured prepare us for the contemplation shortly of the humiliation of His Passion

(The Liturgical Year, Abbot Guéranger, O.S.B.)
